

2022 Switzerland and Credit Suisse

Key facts and figures

Peter Derendinger, Chairman of the Board of Directors and André Helfenstein, Chief Executive Officer of Credit Suisse (Switzerland) Ltd.

Switzerland is synonymous with economic strength and is highly competitive in the fields of research, education, and innovation. This is rooted in the country's stable political and social situation, which makes it resilient even in times of crisis. Switzerland's success also stems from its cultural diversity, modern infrastructure, highly motivated workforce, and the willingness of its entrepreneurs to invest, as well as their awareness of quality. We are all responsible for ensuring it remains this way.

As a leading full-service bank in Switzerland, we provide capital, manage assets, shape market developments, and make technological developments possible. We invest in digital solutions for the goals of every generation. In addition, we are committed to our communities, diversity, sports, and culture as well as to the sustainable use of natural resources. Because this is what Switzerland is all about.

Yours sincerely

CREDIT SUISSE (Switzerland) Ltd.

Our four main areas

We build lasting value by serving our clients with care and entrepreneurial spirit.

The bank for Switzerland with global expertise

Building lasting value is what Switzerland is famous for. It is the basis of our culture and success.

With more than 165 years of experience, we have a solid foundation for the future.

The bank for entrepreneurs

We have been promoting entrepreneurship in Switzerland since 1856.

That entrepreneurial spirit is still firmly embedded in our DNA to this day. From founding to expansion to succession: We're the bank that supports you.

The bank for holistic solutions

Building lasting value is a result of making the right choices.

We support our clients in overcoming the complex challenges of our time. By providing the holistic capabilities they need.

The bank for the digital generation

We are close to our clients, both in the real world and digitally. Our aim is to make things easier and more efficient for them.

By combining the expertise and experience of a reputable bank with the ease and appeal of the digital world.

Credit Suisse's commitment to Switzerland

Our commitment to Switzerland – whether for the environment, culture, sports, or social matters – is based on conviction and enthusiasm.

Commitment to the Swiss home market

- In addition to sponsoring the Swiss national football teams, we recently started to directly support all ten Super League clubs through the Credit Suisse Super League partnership, thereby underscoring our commitment to football throughout Switzerland.
- Innovation and entrepreneurship are very important to us. We support numerous startups and fledgling companies in their development by means of venture capital, expertise, and networking opportunities.
- As a partner of the University of St. Gallen, we are contributing CHF 20 million by 2030 to promote education and research at the interfaces between finance, management, and law.

Supporting our communities

- Despite COVID-19, our employees provided more than 20,800 hours of volunteer work in 2021.
- Over 250 employees hold political office.
- In 2021, we released well over 70 publications on a wide range of topics with an impact on Switzerland (e.g. the Worry Barometer, and real estate market and pension fund studies).

Responsibility for the environment

- We set a net-zero emission target for our operating activities, supply chain, and financing activities, which we hope to reach no later than 2050 with intermediate targets for 2030.
- We want to provide CHF 300 billion in sustainable financing by 2030. Over the past two years, we have already reached CHF 60 billion.
- We have been a member of the Sustainable Markets Initiative launched by the Prince of Wales since 2021. It is aimed at accelerating the financial industry's transition to net zero.
