

Dr. Andreas Caduff

About

Andreas Caduff is the founder of Biovotion, a leading manufacturer of connected wearable physiology monitoring devices.

Career

Prior to the foundation of Biovotion, Andreas Caduff held various positions in the pharmaceutical, medical-device and digital-health sectors, including at Pendragon Medical and Solianis Monitoring. During this time, he invented numerous patents and co-authored several dozen scientific publications in peer-reviewed journals.

Education

Andreas Caduff holds a PhD in Biophysics/Biosensors from the Hebrew University of Jerusalem and a Master's Degree in Biotechnology from Teesside University in Middlesbrough.