Credit Suisse Announces Launch of the “MLTI” ETN Providing Exposure to an NYSE Index Comprised of up to 120 Income-Producing Securities

The new ETN is linked to the NYSE Multi-Asset High Income Index (the “Index”).

New York, September 30, 2015 Credit Suisse today announced the launch of its X-Links Multi-Asset High Income ETN which is listed under the ticker symbol “MLTI” and will begin trading on NYSE Arca this morning.

MLTI Profile

Underlying Index	NYSE Multi-Asset High Income Index
Index Constituents	Up to 120 U.S.-listed, income-producing securities
Index Yield*	7.93%
Income Potential	Variable monthly coupon
Annualized Tracking Fee Rate	0.84%, accrued on a daily basis

* The Index Yield was calculated by NYSE Arca as of September 23, 2015 and represents the weighted-average of the 12-month dividend yields of the current Index Constituents. The Index was launched on March 30, 2015; therefore, no historical information regarding constituents or dividend yields is available prior to that date. Because the Index Yield does not reflect investor fees or applicable withholding taxes, if any, and because the variable monthly coupon that may be paid by the ETN, if any, is subject to fees and withholding taxes, the yield on the ETNs will always be less than the Index Yield (and the total return on the ETNs will always be less than the total return on a hypothetical direct investment in the Index or Index Constituents).

 Investors are not guaranteed any coupon or distribution amount under the ETN. Any payment on the ETN is subject to our ability to pay our obligations as they become due.

“Investors seeking income typically turn to investments in a single asset segment,” said Paul Somma, Head of Exchange Traded Notes at Credit Suisse. “MLTI’s exposure to a multi-asset and multi-sector index is designed to provide income investors with access to a diverse mix of income-producing assets in a single, exchange-traded security.”

NYSE Multi-Asset High Income Index

MLTI tracks the NYSE Multi-Asset High Income Index (the “Index”), which is comprised of a broad, diversified basket of up to 120 publicly-traded securities that historically have paid high dividends or distributions (the “Index Constituents”). The index sponsor designed the Index’s features with a view to highlighting income, while its choice of diverse Index Constituent sectors seeks to minimize volatility. The Index methodology incorporates minimum free float market capitalization; dividend yield and frequency; liquidity minimums; and asset class and sector weighting requirements. The Index is rebalanced quarterly to maintain the target weightings set forth in the chart below.
