

Corporate Citizenship in the Americas 2018

Our Approach

Through Credit Suisse's Corporate Citizenship activities, the bank strives to contribute to inclusive growth and social development. We see education and access to financial services as key drivers of growth and an effective means of helping people to help themselves. Additionally, the talents and interests of our employees drive our support of causes where they are active, enabling us to make a greater difference in society than we could on our own. Thus, our social commitments are aligned in the areas of Education, Financial Inclusion, and Employee Engagement.

Most of our commitments in the Americas are fulfilled by the Credit Suisse Americas Foundation (CSAF) while the Instituto Credit Suisse Hedging-Griffo supports the needs of local communities in Brazil.

In the Americas, as in other parts of the world, the Swiss-based Credit Suisse Foundation supports developing communities through the Global Education Initiative and Financial Inclusion Initiative. The Global Citizens Program offers employees the opportunity to share their expertise with our education and financial inclusion partners around the world.

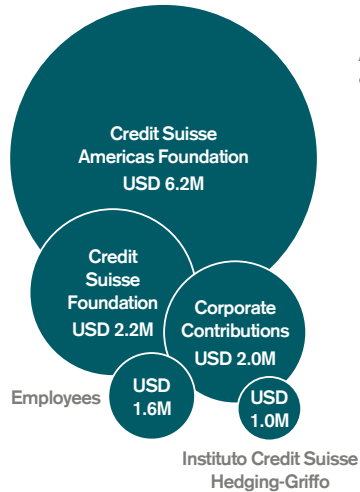

This factsheet features the giving and programming of the Credit Suisse Americas Foundation while also incorporating the work of our related Corporate Citizenship functions. Read on to learn more about the progress made in 2018.
