Investment is suitable for beneficiaries who are enrolled in a 1e pension plan as part of their employee benefits insurance and who have received advice about choosing an investment strategy and the associated risks and costs. This group has the relevant knowledge and experience with the investment products.

Investing in assets carry with it associated risks which may include market risk, portfolio management risk, foreign currency risk, and liquidity risk.

CSA/CSA 2 investment groups for 1e plans

With over CHF 20 billion in assets under management, the Credit Suisse Investment Foundations are among the largest investment foundations in Switzerland. The existing CSA/CSA 2 Mixta investment groups (mixed funds) are professionally managed by Credit Suisse Asset Management (Switzerland) Ltd. and have a long track record.

The CSA/CSA 2 Mixta investment groups are mixed funds that have been optimized in terms of risk and return and are tailored to the Swiss pension system. The Investment Foundation has pension provider status, which means that the mixed funds enjoy tax advantages; for example, they are exempt from Japanese withholding tax and, in the case of CSA 2, from US withholding tax.

Having a one security per investment strategy means that 1e foundations can reduce the financial and administrative burden associated with implementing the individual investment strategies. The full cost of the investment strategy is charged directly to the respective mixed fund in the form of a flat-rate fee. Detailed and regular reporting provides transparency vis-à-vis 1e foundations and their beneficiaries.

The Credit Suisse Investment Foundations offer special asset classes for 1e foundations.

The Credit Suisse Investment Foundations

The Credit Suisse Investment Foundation (CSA) was founded in 1974 by the then Schweizerische Kreditanstalt SKA. Today, it offers an extensive range of products for employee benefit insurance and private pension provision (2nd and 3rd pillar). Credit Suisse Investment Foundation 2nd Pillar (CSA 2) was founded in 2006 and specializes in collective investments with a significant U.S. equity holding. Both Investment Foundations are members of the Konferenz der Geschäftsführer von Anlagestiftungen [Conference of Investment Foundation Managers] (KGAST by its German acronym).

Investors must submit a written membership application to be considered for inclusion in the CSA/CSA 2. Tax-exempt 2nd pillar employee benefit insurance institutions and Pillar 3a bank foundations domiciled in Switzerland are eligible to join the CSA. The CSA 2 investor base is somewhat narrower. For example, certain types of welfare foundation, purely financing foundations, and Pillar 3a institutions are not eligible to become investors.

Unlike investors in a fund, investors in investment foundations enjoy extensive participation rights and co-determination rights. They also have active and passive voting rights and are entitled to attend the annual general meeting of investors. The tasks of the general meeting of investors include electing persons to the Board of Trustees of the investment foundation and deciding on amendments to the articles of incorporation and to the regulations.

The Credit Suisse Investment Foundations are subject to the provisions of the Swiss Federal Act on Occupational Retirement, Survivors' and Disability Pension Plans (BVG) and the Ordinance on Investment Foundations (OIF). Additionally, the general provisions of foundation law apply subsidiarily here. Investment foundations are overseen by the Occupational Pension Supervisory Commission (OPSC).

High degree of diversification in the CSA/CSA 2 Mixta investment groups

The CSA/CSA 2 Mixta investment groups have a fund-of-funds structure. As a result, the risk associated with investing in a Mixta investment group is spread across several collective investments (investment groups of the CSA/CSA 2 or investment funds) and the underlying assets that form part of this target fund (e.g. equities, bonds, real estate, mortgages, the money market, and currencies). Certain investment groups might also contain alternative investments. The structure of the Mixta investment groups means that such groups offer a high degree of diversification.

The range of products includes both actively and passively managed Mixta investment groups. In the case of actively managed investment groups, the portfolio management team endeavors to optimize returns over the long term through skillful investments, thereby outperforming the benchmark. Passively managed (indexed) investment groups track indices, and thus developments in the relevant markets, as closely as possible.

The illustration below gives an example of how an investment group functions:

Efficiently implementing 1e plans

The CSA/CSA 2 Mixta investment groups are ideal for ensuring simple, efficient implementation of 1e pension plans. The clearly structured product portfolio, which is tailored to the Swiss pension system, lends itself to a range of investment strategies. In addition, the mixed funds offer an intrinsically high level of diversification and are also continually optimized in terms of risk and return. The track record of the Mixta investment groups is clear proof of historically strong performance with an acceptable level of risk.

Special asset classes are available to support implementation of 1e offers. Having a one security per investment strategy means that 1e foundations can significantly reduce financial and administrative burden. What's more, switching between strategies is easy, and the full cost of the investment strategy is charged directly to the product in the form of a flat-rate fee. The large proportion of fixed assets gives the Mixta investment groups extremely high liquidity, supporting daily subscriptions and redemptions.

Another benefit for 1e foundations and their beneficiaries is the high level of transparency over their assets, by virtue of detailed and regular reporting. Reporting (e.g. fact sheets) includes performance figures, data on portfolio composition, and other key figures. An audited annual report is also published once a year.

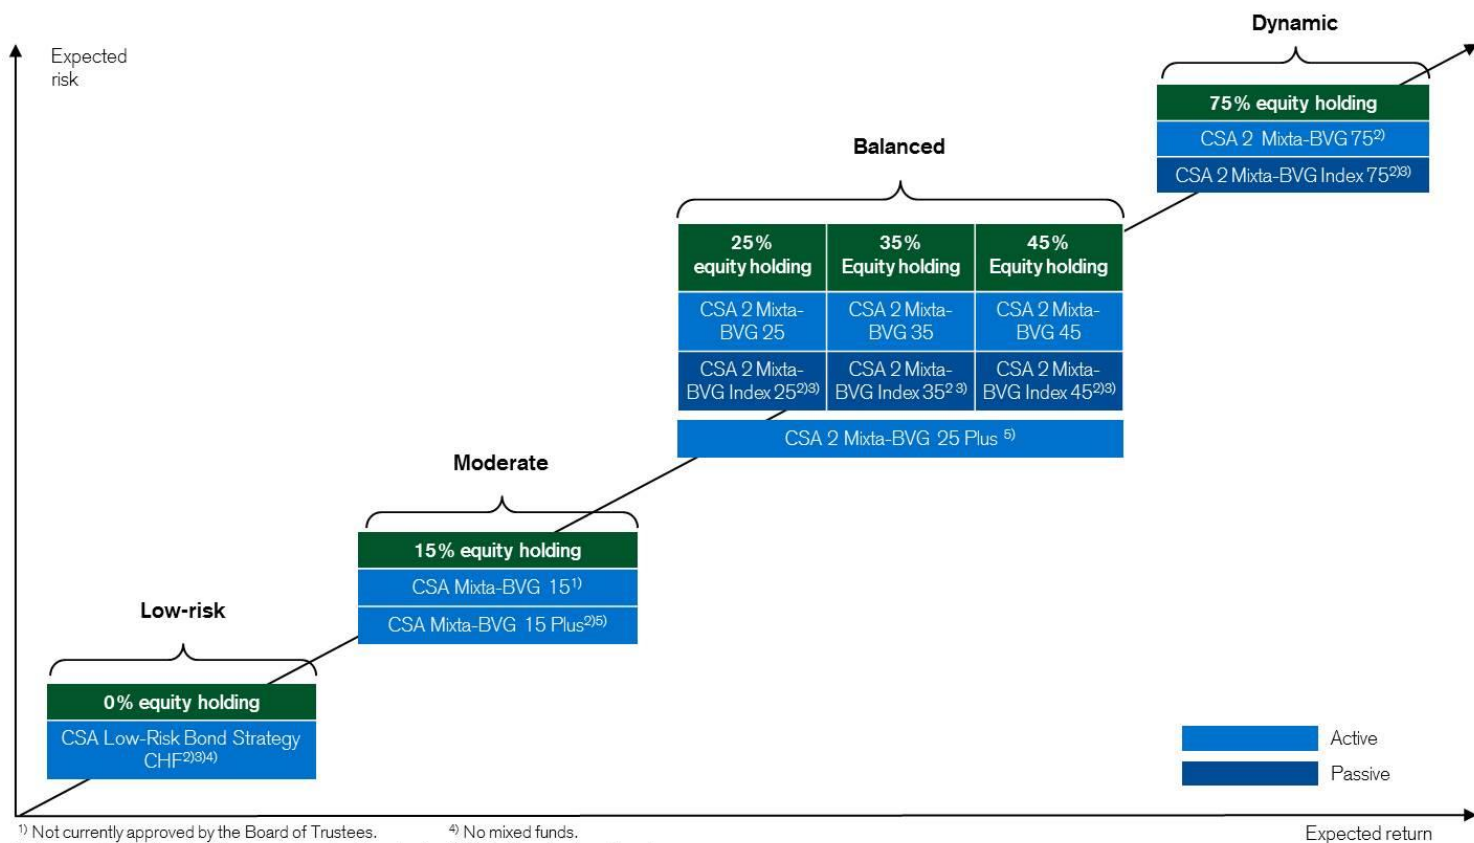

Credit Suisse Asset Management (Switzerland) Ltd. manages the portfolio for the Mixta investment groups, giving investors access to the expertise of a prestigious, professional asset manager. The Mixta investment groups already have a large number of satisfied investors from the second pillar and Pillar 3a.

<sup>1)</sup> The cost burden for actively managed CSA/CSA 2 mixed funds is disclosed to investors by means of the TER figure based on the KGAST guidelines. The available mixed funds have a fund-of-funds structure. Accordingly, in addition to the costs relating to the fund of funds (Mixta investment group), the TER calculation also includes the weighted cost of the target fund. The composition of the mixed funds can change over time, meaning that the TER is subject to certain fluctuations. Therefore, the TER that is currently stated cannot be guaranteed. However, CSA/CSA 2 is committed to keeping the TER as stable as possible.

Risks relating to investments

Risks relating to investments

As a general rule, investments are exposed to market risks, currency risks, and other risks, such as counterparty risks and liquidity risks, and are subject to certain fluctuations in value (volatility). The risks differ depending on the investment category and investment group.

The loss potential of the 1e pension plan assets: Under some circumstances, investments in the CSA/CSA 2 investment groups for 1e pension plans may fall in value. Thanks to risk diversification across a variety of collective investments and the underlying assets contained within these, the likelihood of a total loss is very low.

Market risk: The investor bears the risk that the value of the CSA/CSA 2 investment groups may fall during the specified term. This can be the result of fluctuations in the market prices of the underlying assets. Fluctuations result from a range of causes, including changes in fundamentals and unforeseeable, sometimes irrational, behavior on the part of market participants.

Portfolio management risk: The portfolio management team of the CSA/CSA 2 investment groups selects the collective investments and determines the weightings within the defined bandwidths. These decisions can also lead to losses.

Foreign exchange risk: The CSA/CSA 2 investment groups (with the exception of CSA Low-Risk Bond Strategy CHF) also invest in currencies other than the Swiss franc. Exchange rate fluctuations can therefore have a negative impact on unit values.

Liquidity risk: Units in the CSA/CSA 2 investment groups for 1e pension plans can generally be subscribed and redeemed on a daily basis. In exceptional market situations, the management of CSA/CSA 2 can temporarily limit or discontinue the redemption of units. If, in a particular investment group, the liquid assets for immediate payments are not adequate and if an immediate sale of inherent investments could lead to disproportionately low prices due to a lack of market liquidity, the redemption of units can be postponed for up to three weeks or staggered.

Tracking risk: The return on a CSA/CSA 2 investment group can be lower than the return on the underlying benchmark because the investment group is subject to management fees.

Alternative investment risk: The risks involved in these investments arise in particular due to the extensive use of short-selling, derivatives, and debt capital, as well as a long-term investment horizon.

Other risks: Investors may be exposed to other risks – for example, those related to the counterparty/issuer risk, the use of derivatives, or investments in emerging markets or real estate.

In the case of bonds, the capital originally invested may be depleted, depending on sales and market prices or changes in repayment amounts. Care is required when investing in such instruments.

Investments in foreign currencies may involve the additional risk that the foreign currency may lose value against the investor's reference currency.

Equities may be subject to market forces and hence fluctuations in value that are not entirely predictable.

The key risks of real estate investments include limited liquidity in the real estate market, changing mortgage interest rates, subjective valuation of real estate, inherent risks in respect of the construction of buildings, and environmental risks (e.g. land contamination).
