Would you like to manage your available liquidity according to your own needs? With the Credit Suisse Balance Optimizer, you make your own rules for automated account transfers.

Do you manage your money yourself and make daily Online Banking transfers between your accounts? Does this cost you a lot of time and effort? Starting now, with the Balance Optimizer, Credit Suisse gives you the option of automating your liquidity. Automated account transfers are made on the basis of the rules that you make, thereby letting you manage the liquidity available in your account according to your wishes. For instance, you can compensate for a negative balance in your main account with a transfer from a secondary account, thus avoiding debit interest. You can also automatically transfer any surplus from your main account to another account within your client relationship (e.g., household, vacation, or savings accounts).

Your Needs
- Simple, automated and flexible solution for managing your liquidity in your Credit Suisse accounts
- Optimize your credit interest and make the most of your savings potential
- Distribute available liquidity with no manual effort
- Efficient cash management with simple administration

Our Solution
- Using a few settings in Online Banking, define rules and automatically optimize account balances
- Transfers are only possible between Credit Suisse accounts
- Use of Balance Optimizer is free of charge

Your Benefits
