

QR-bill generator for billers

The QR-bill will replace the red and orange paper payment slips as of September 30, 2022. Instead of the red and orange payment slips, billers can prepare QR-bills themselves using their own software or an online QR-bill generator.

Clients of Credit Suisse have access to a free QR-bill generator developed and made available in partnership with Lerchmüller AG. It can be used to issue individual QR-bills or a series of up to 24 QR-bills free of charge. Billers can generate three types of QR-bills:

- QR-bill with IBAN and no reference (with or without a reason for payment)
- QR-bill with IBAN and creditor reference in accordance with the ISO 11649 standard
- QR-bill with a QR-IBAN and structured reference

QR-bill generator

QR-bill generators meeting the Swiss Payment Standards (SPS) are available on the website of our partner, Lerchmüller AG:

<https://qr-generator.lerchmueller.ch>

The QR-bills that are generated and related information will be issued as downloadable PDF documents. The free offer for Credit Suisse clients includes the following services:

- Generation of a single QR-bill (payment part / receipt)
- Generation of a series of up to 24 QR-bills (payment part / receipt)

Information on IBANs and QR-IBANs used by payees

The QR-bill contains only the IBAN or QR-IBAN as the payee's account number. IBAN is the internationally standardized method of representing a bank account number in accordance with ISO 13616 and is issued solely to the final beneficiary (biller). The QR-IBAN is used to identify the process and ensures that the structured reference number is documented without fail for reconciliation of the incoming payment. The bank assigns the QR-IBAN.

The information provided herein constitutes marketing material.
