

Cut-off deadlines and major correspondent banks

The cut-off deadline is the latest time for submitting a payment order so that the transfer can be executed by the requested value date. This deadline is based on the currency-specific cut-off times of our correspondent banks, but can be restricted depending on the delivery channel or payment type. Orders can only be carried out on time if, among other things, payment instructions are complete and accurate, and the relevant amount of funds is available in the account to be debited.

Please take note of the cut-off times for both the payment channel and the currency when submitting a payment order. If the times differ, always adhere to the earlier cut-off time.
