

Repositioning and rebranding: Credit Suisse (Lux) Relative Return Engineered EUR Bond Fund

Dear Sirs

Effective June 5, 2015, the Credit Suisse (Lux) Relative Return Engineered EUR Bond Fund will be repositioned, rebranded and renamed.

New fund name: Credit Suisse (Lux) Sustainable Bond Fund

- Repositioning will be limited to securities selection: future integration of sustainability criteria (ESG criteria)
- Benefit: individual securities risks will be reduced
- Investment policy and benchmark remain unchanged
- Repositioning should result in only modest changes as the bulk of securities held in the fund already meet the additional selection criteria
- Change in fund manager
- Management fee to be reduced

Why will the fund be repositioned?

Investor interest in sustainability has increased significantly over the past few years. On the one hand, this is attributable to changing social values; on the other, the incorporation of sustainability criteria into the analysis and selection of fixed income securities will facilitate a better assessment of individual securities risks.

Traditional selection criteria are mainly based on shorter-term economic risks associated with issuers, whereas sustainability criteria focus on relatively longer-term environmental, social and corporate governance risks.

Consequently, the integration of sustainability criteria means that individual securities risks will be reduced. The fund will be repositioned, rebranded and renamed into Credit Suisse (Lux) Sustainable Bond Fund to reflect this positive effect.
